COLORS

When selecting colors, it's important to consider how sunlight enters the room. Spaces with limited natural light benefit from brighter, lighter tones to enhance brightness, while rooms that receive abundant sunlight can be balanced with cooler shades. In narrow or low-ceilinged areas, cool colors help create a more spacious feel, whereas warm tones can make large, open rooms feel cozier and more inviting.

Turning every bath into a moment of spiritual rejuvenation and artistic experience.

To me, the bathroom is more than a place to wash away the dust of the world—it is a private sanctuary, a spiritual island where we can escape the mundane and reconnect with ourselves. As water flows over the skin, we shed our external identities, facing our truest selves. It is in this intimate dialogue that I conceived “Boat of Sage”, a work meant to imbue this personal space with deeper philosophical meaning.

Crafted from cold, resilient stainless steel, its metallic sheen reflects both the toughness and iinortality of wisdom, while also evoking the solitude and discipline required on the path of discovery. Shaped like a small boat and mounted on the bathroom wall, it is a vessel moored in the harbor of the soul. Every etched texture tells a story of contemplation, time, and the accumulation of insight.

Sages are often solitary explorers, unsatisfied with superficial appearances and driven by the pursuit of truth. Boat of Sage embodies this spirit, carrying the owner’s yearning for knowledge and encouraging brief voyages beyond the noise of daily life. Within this tiny space, one can contemplate philosophy, explore science, or perceive art—sailing freely on the currents of thought.

Beyond being a sculptural stainless steel towel radiator, Boat of Sage is a mirror to the inner self. It reminds us that in a world abundant with material comforts, we must still nourish the spirit. In the gentle murmur of water, this small sanctuary becomes a space for reflection, growth, and transcendence—turning every bath into a moment of spiritual rejuvenation and artistic experience.

Golden Antlers

The Golden Antlers is a luxury towel warmer inspired by the organic beauty and strength of deer antlers. Symbolizing vitality and majesty, it transforms a practical towel warmer into a sculptural centerpiece for an array of interiors.

Created with a renowned sculptor, this designer towel warmer showcases meticulous craftsmanship.

The flowing antler tines provide an artistically organic and versatile hanging surface area.

Its branching form provides versatile hanging space while serving as a statement of strength and elegance.

Inspired by Nature, Crafted for Luxury

The Golden Antlers was created as a tribute to the beauty and vitality of the forest. At P&Bhusri, we see design as a poetic connection between nature and life, and this sculptural towel radiator takes inspiration from the deer—an animal admired for its graceful form and symbolic meaning.

Across cultures, deer represent unity, wisdom, and strength. Their movement through the forest reflects freedom and harmony with nature, echoing our own philosophy of balance and sustainability. By shaping these qualities into a radiator, we bring the spirit of the natural world into everyday living.

The name Golden Antlers reflects both form and value: branching antlers, transformed into a striking structure, and gold, symbolizing rarity and timeless worth. In collaboration with a master sculptor, we reimagined the branching lines into a versatile towel rack. Its elegant rods provide multiple hanging spaces for towels and bath sheets—combining practicality with refined artistry.

Crafted with exquisite detail, the Golden Antlers is more than a towel warmer. It is a sculptural centerpiece that carries the philosophy of nature into the home, uniting function, beauty, and spirit in one timeless creation.

Daphne's Branch

Daphne’s Branch is a sculptural designer towel warmer inspired by the graceful form of tree branches. Its artistic silhouette brings the beauty of nature into the bathroom, transforming a functional heating element into a statement of elegance and warmth.

More than an artwork, Daphne’s Branch delivers outstanding performance. Its electric heating system ensures quick drying, even heat distribution, and protection against dampness and bacteria—creating a bathroom environment that is fresh, hygienic, and comfortable all year round.

Designed with modular flexibility, Daphne’s Branch can be configured as a single set, double set, or triple set, adapting perfectly to different bathroom configurations and sizes.

A Myth Carved Into Design

Design is often a romantic narrative, woven from myths and inspired by nature. The story of Daphne’s Branch is rooted in Greek mythology, where Daphne, pursued by Apollo, transformed into a laurel tree to preserve her purity. In this eternal gesture, she embodied both sacrifice and beauty—qualities that inspired the spirit of this creation.

The flowing lines and branching form echo nature’s vitality, serving as a bridge between myth and modern living. It is both sculpture and function, bringing poetry into everyday life.

Structurally, Daphne’s Branch adopts a three-section modular design, breaking free from the rigid conventions of traditional towel radiators. Whether in a compact bathroom or a spacious interior, it can be configured as one, two, or three sections—flexible enough to suit any setting. Each branch becomes a carrier of creativity: used alone as a statement piece or combined to form a lush, sculptural whole.

By merging art with practicality, Daphne’s Branch transforms storage into an experience. It creates a dynamic, poetic atmosphere in the bathroom, allowing the legendary beauty of myth to take shape in daily life.

Verona

In northern Italy, Verona stands timeless, its streets and squares steeped in history and culture. The Verona electric heated towel rail captures the essence of this legendary city.

Every touch evokes the city’s romantic whispers, transforming everyday routines into moments of intimacy and elegance.

This towel warmer offers functional design to maximize heat exposure along with subtle details, creating one of our most popular collections.

Usable sculpture, warmth in the everyday.

I define Verona as “a usable sculpture, warmth in the everyday.”

Rooted in the practicality of traditional towel racks, it reinterprets form through a sculptural language—its lines are clean, fluid, and deliberate, free of ornate decoration, retaining only the minimalist silhouette that stands the test of time. This reflects the wisdom of medieval craftsmanship: in simplifying the complex, the design distills comfort and reassurance that endure through the ages. This elegance of “simplicity” ultimately serves everyday life. Naming it Verona was not only a way to convey timeless, classic quality but also to bring it into the intimacy of daily routines. When a towel hangs over its crisp lines, or when your gaze passes over it during morning rituals, it ceases to be a cold object. Instead, through restrained aesthetics, it adds a subtle, enduring warmth to ordinary moments.
